from 10:30AM to 12:30PM

with Barbara J. Mathews, CG

at the Stamford Historical Society

1508 High Ridge Road, Stamford, CT

Maybe the evidence you need to break a brickwall is already on your desk, but you haven't recognized it yet! Learn the terminology used to evaluate genealogical records. Analyze specific cases, from straightforward evidence to complex, indirect, and conflicting evidence.

This is a participatory class and not a laid-back lecture. The second hour includes hands-on projects for small groups. All students will receive a 32-page workbook.

Barbara Mathews specializes in colonial New England genealogy. She is Verifying Genealogist for the Massachusetts Society of The Colonial Dames of America and Genealogist for the Welles Family Association. Her society experience includes being Program Co-Chair for NERGC 2009; an officer in the Connecticut Professional Genealogists Council, former President and current Civil Records C-Director for the Massachusetts Genealogical Council; blog contributor and RPAC representative for the Board for Certification of Genealogists, and Mentor of ProGen Study Group 7 and GenProof Study Group 6.

Registration begins at 10:00 AM, workshop starts at 10:30 AM.
